

A Season For Giving

As you enjoy the warmth and joy of your family this season please consider donating to Journeys so we can continue our important work for the children who are waiting for the love and support of their adoptive families.

We need your help with our mission of placing children in loving homes and helping the children who are left behind, many of whom will reach adulthood without knowing the wonders of family.

In 2008 Journeys has a number of crucial projects for children including starting an orphanage in Vietnam and the continued gift of education for the children of six poor villages in Guatemala.

As we enter this holiday season filled with thoughts of family and love, please do help us help the children by giving what you can. Have a wonderful holiday!

With Love, Susan and David, and the Journeys of the Heart Family.
